❖PREFACE.❖

FOR many years past, it has been desirable to collate statistical information of the Israelites in the United States, not alone for an exhibit of material prosperity or status as a religious community, but for purposes that would be mutually beneficial to every section of the country, and enable them to act in greater concert in all that concerns them as children of the Abrahamic faith.

In order to carry out what was deemed necessary, the Board of Delegates of American Israelites, in the year 1875, asked the co-operation of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, and by the united efforts of a committee from each body, the present result is laid before the community.

The plan adopted to secure the desired information, was sending out blanks and circulars to almost every place in the Union. These were sent out in the years 1876-7-8. In towns where no congregations existed, the secretaries of the Lodges of the various Jewish Orders were addressed, and influential citizens in sections where there were neither congregations nor societies. It was difficult, in some instances, to procure a response; but, notwithstanding many obstacles, it is believed that this—the first systematic attempt in this country to ascertain our strength,—is as nearly accurate as we could expect, and will furnish a basis on which future committees can work with a fair prospect of accomplishing yet more fully the desired object.

Where there are no statistics from a city, town or congregation, it is because no reply was received, notwithstanding urgent solicitation.

Some congregations declined furnishing the information sought, so that it had to be procured from other sources, but replies were received from nearly one thousand places, and the result shows that there were in the United States, in the year 1878, 278 congregations, with a membership of 12,546, and the number of Israelites, as far as could be ascertained, was 230,257, so that making a fair allowance for such cities, towns or villages from which no information could be derived, the Jewish population of the United States can be safely placed at 250,000.

* The following record has been found in Peterson's History of Rhode Island: "1768.—This year the Jewish Synagogue at Newport, which was erected the year before, was dedicated to the God of Abraham. At this time the town of Newport contained upward of sixty families of Jews. Among them were many merchants of wealth and enterprise. * * * There is now in the Town Clerk's office the copy of a deed of a certain lot of land, thirty feet square, sold by Nathaniel Dickens to Mordecai Campamald and Moses Packeetoe for a burial place for the Jews. This deed is dated February 28th, 1677. * * * The first Jews who settled in Newport were of Dutch extraction from Curacoa." This portion of the work continues at some length on the subject, giving the names of many of the residents who were regarded with high esteem, and held positions of great honor and trust. The synagogue was closed about 1790, doubtless in consequence of the removal or death of most of the Jewish residents, and remained closed until about 1850, when the late Rev. Dr. M. J. Raphael, of New York, while on a visit to Newport, held Divine Service in it on a Sabbath day. From what we have thus gleaned, it is conclusively proven that the first settlement of Jews in this country must have been at Newport.

APPENDIX C.

UNION OF AMERICAN HEBREW CONGREGATIONS.

The Union of American Hebrew Congregations comprises one hundred and eighteen congregations in the United States (Report July, 1879), and has for its object the union of the Israelites of America in all that is beneficial to their interests, and especially to establish and maintain institutions for instruction in Hebrew literature and Jewish theology, to promote the religious instruction of the young in the principles and history of Judaism, and to establish relations with kindred organizations in other parts of the world, for the relief of the Jews from political oppression and rendering them aid in their social, moral, and intellectual elevation.

In furtherance of the main objects of the organization, Preparatory Schools, for the study of the Hebrew language and Jewish History have been formed in Cincinnati and New York; and in Cincinnati,

THE HEBREW UNION COLLEGE has been established with an efficient Corps of Professors, and under the control and management of a Board of Governors, consisting of twenty-four members.

The college affords gratuitous instruction in Hebrew, Classical and Rabbinical Departments, not only to Israelites, but to students of all denominations, and is authorized by law to confer degrees upon those who have satisfactorily passed through the course of instruction.

BOARD OF DELEGATES ON CIVIL AND RELIGIOUS RIGHTS.

The Executive Board of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations appoints the Board of Delegates on Civil and Religious Rights, and which has its seat in New York City.

It has in its charge the branch of duties which its name implies, and is authorized "to establish relations with kindred organizations in other parts of the world, for the relief of the Jews from political oppression and for rendering them such aid for their intellectual elevation as may be within reach of this Union."

The original Board of Delegates of American Israelites had an existence of nineteen years, and "was a useful and happy agency for the advancement of the welfare of Israel." Organized shortly after the abduction of Edgar Mortara, its purposes extended beyond the area of material assistance to the distressed. Its aid was given to promote education abroad, as well as at home, and to lift up down-trodden Israelites to a sense of their manhood. It was in order to carry out these designs more fully, and to extend its sphere of usefulness, that the amalgamation with the U. A. H. C. took place in the year 5639-1878.

YOUNG MEN'S HEBREW ASSOCIATIONS.

The object of these associations is mental, moral, and social culture by means of lectures on scientific and literary topics, Jewish history and literature, entertainments of a social, dramatic, literary, and musical character, and the establishment of reading rooms and libraries.

There are now associations of this kind in New York; Philadelphia; Newark, N. J.; Pittsburgh; St. Louis; Cincinnati; Washington, D. C.; Charleston, S. C.; San Francisco; Portland, Oregon; Harlem, N. Y.; Baltimore, Md.; Chicago; Brooklyn, Albany, Troy, N. Y.; Atlanta and Macon, Ga.; New Orleans, La.; Louisville, Ky.; Wilkesbarre; Buffalo; Madison, Md.; Donaldsonville, La.; Hartford, Conn.
